DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Welch #4,783,114.

Welch teaches a door having an inner door element made of an injected foam material. The boundary layers are taught by the inner and outer most surfaces and the central layer is taught by the foam material located between the inner and outer most layers.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 24-37 and 39-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Welch #4,783,114 in view of Kidd #4,848,829. Welch teaches the invention as discussed in the Section 102 rejection above. Welch fails to disclose a elements being molded into the foamed material. Kidd teaches that it is generally known in the art to provide elements, such as cables, to be molded into the foamed element of the door. Doing so provides a waterproof environment for the cables and any other element molded therein. For this reason, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art, at the time of applicant's invention, to provide Welch with particular known door elements, such as cable holder, speakers and bushing, molded therein as taught by Kidd.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed February 12, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the prior art Welch fails to teach or suggest an internal element that is foam injected, not moulded foam. Welch, in fact, teaches an internal element made of foam material. The manner in which is was produced is not a basis for patentability in an apparatus claim. This is a product-by-process limitation which is given little patentable weight. Patentability of an apparatus claim is determined by the structure set forth, not the manner in which is was constructed (See M.P.E.P. Chapter 2100).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
